WHY PEPTIDE THERAPY?

Many factors contribute to the formation wrinkles, sagging skin and other signs of aging. However, skin experts widely agree that the most dominant factor is the continual loss of protein fibers in our skin. These mainly refer to collagen & elastin fibers that provide firmness and elasticity to the skin, and allow it to protect itself against harmful stressors. With age, fibers-producing cells in our skin (called 'fibroblasts') become much less active and therefore much less able to replenish old and broken collagen & elastin fibers .

This is where peptides come to aid. Peptides are very short chains of amino acids, which are the building blocks of larger proteins in our body, including collagen & elastin. Free peptides take active part in cellular signalling and can turn our skin cells back to their "active" mode, essentially boosting the natural production of new, healthy collagen & elastin fibers and hyaluronic acid. In other words, bioactive peptides activate our aging cells and reset their DNA to a healthier state. Peptides also protect the skin from premature aging, as they de-activate free radicals, reduce inflammation, prevent collagen breakage and protect skin cells from photo-damage.

- ✓ Small enough to penetrate the skin topically
- ✓ Specifically activate 'dormant' fibroblasts
- ✓ Promote natural synthesis of collagen, elastin and hyaluronic acid
- ✓ Exert strong antioxidant and anti-inflammatory properties
- ✓ Reduce wrinkles
- ✓ Improve firmness and elasticity
- ✓ Increase skin hydration and plumpness

MATRIXYL™ 3000

Matrixyl™ 3000 is today's gold standard in topical peptide therapy. Matrixyl™ 3000 features a unique combination of two synergetic peptides: palmitoyl tripeptide-1 & palmitoyl tetrapeptide-7. These small peptides can easily penetrate the skin into the deeper layers, where they activate fibroblast cells, stimulate the production of collagen, elastin & hyaluronic acid, and protect existing fibers from premature breakage.

Main Benefits of Matrixyl™ 3000

- ✓ Wrinkle reduction
- ✓ Smoother complexion
- ✓ Firmer and more resilient skin
- ✓ Improved texture and tone
- ✓ Repair and prevent photo-damage
- ✓ Healthier skin cells
- ✓ Reduced signs of inflammation

MATRIXYL™ 3000

How Matrixyl™ 3000 Works?

Matrixyl™ 3000 replicates the action of 'matrikines' – naturally occurring peptides (short chain of amino acids) that are integrated in our collagen fibers. When collagen fibers gradually break down, the matrikines can be released from their bonding site. Free matrikines can then bind with fibroblasts cells in order to trigger and stimulate the production of new, young and healthy fibers, mainly collagen & elastin, which provide firmness and elasticity to the skin. Matrikines also stimulate the production of hyaluronic acid – a crucial molecule that keeps the skin well hydrated and plumped. Aging skin releases less matrikines over time, meaning that our skin break down from within without proper replenishment of fibers.

Matrixyl™3000 provides a much needed boost of matrikines-like peptides to the aging skin, allowing it to restore the functionality of young and healthy cells, stimulating collagen renewal, and promoting skin rejuvenation.

COPPER TRIPEPTIDE-1

Copper Tripeptide-1 (also known as GHK-Cu) is a naturally occurring molecule in our body, comprised of three amino acids bonded with one copper ion. This small molecule regulates multiple regenerative and protective processes in the human body, and is especially acclaimed for its ability to promote scarless wound healing, protect skin cells, accelerate the repair of damaged skin fibers, and stimulate collagen, elastin and hyaluronic acid by skin fibroblasts. It is also known to possess a powerful antioxidant & anti-inflammatory properties, making it a key ingredient in the battle against photo-damage.

Main Benefits of Copper Tripeptide-1

- ✓ Tighten loose skin and reverse thinning of aged skin
- ✓ Repair protective skin barrier proteins
- ✓ Improve skin firmness, elasticity, and clarity
- ✓ Reduce fine lines, depth of wrinkles, and improve structure of aged skin
- ✓ Smooth rough skin
- ✓ Reduce dark spots and hyperpigmentation
- ✓ Improve overall skin appearance
- ✓ Stimulate wound healing
- ✓ Protect skin cells from UV radiation
- ✓ Reduce inflammation and free radical damage

How Copper Tripeptide-1 Works?

Copper Tripeptide-1 works as a peptide messenger – a small molecule that can bind to different types of cells and deliver a unique message to each particular cell. For example, when Copper Tripeptide binds to fibroblast cells, it sends a message to activate the genes that are responsible for the production of new collagen, elastin and hyaluronic acid. Copper Tripeptide also works as a powerful antioxidant that can deactivate free radicals and protect skin cells from UV-induced damage. Numerous studies demonstrated the ability of Copper Tripeptide to increase secretion of important growth factors such as FGF, TGF- $\beta$ 3, and VEGF. Consequently, Copper Tripeptide boosts the activity of fibroblast cells, keratinocytes and endothelial cells. This results in collagen regeneration, stronger skin barrier and improved blood supply to the skin. With age our skin produces significantly less Copper Tripeptide, therefore daily application is necessary to keep it active and healthy.
